

Results From A Horizons Community Poll

Conducted March 04, 2007 – March 18, 2007

Well, here it is! Get out your reading glasses and screen magnifiers! I've tried to present the collected data in some manner that gives it meaning without misrepresenting its significance. This means you might have to think about the graphs a little bit, but it makes comparisons a lot easier to do once you get the hang of it. I apologize in advance for the small print.

A few notes about the results...

Question 1: "What is the state of your forum account?"

I suspect this question to be heavily biased. I wanted an idea of the reason behind the low ratio of registered users to guests on the community forum. The results I got did not agree with the observed ratio. It is possible that those guests didn't participate for one reason or another. It is also possible that those are registered users who are too lazy to log in. The results are inconclusive. Nonetheless, I have included them as they may prove useful to somebody.

Question 2: "Please describe your current level of game activity."

There were a lot of "None of these apply..." responses, 23 to be exact. Fortunately, the majority of them provided an explanation which actually fell into one of the other categories. I went through the responses looking for those and moved them to a more appropriate category.

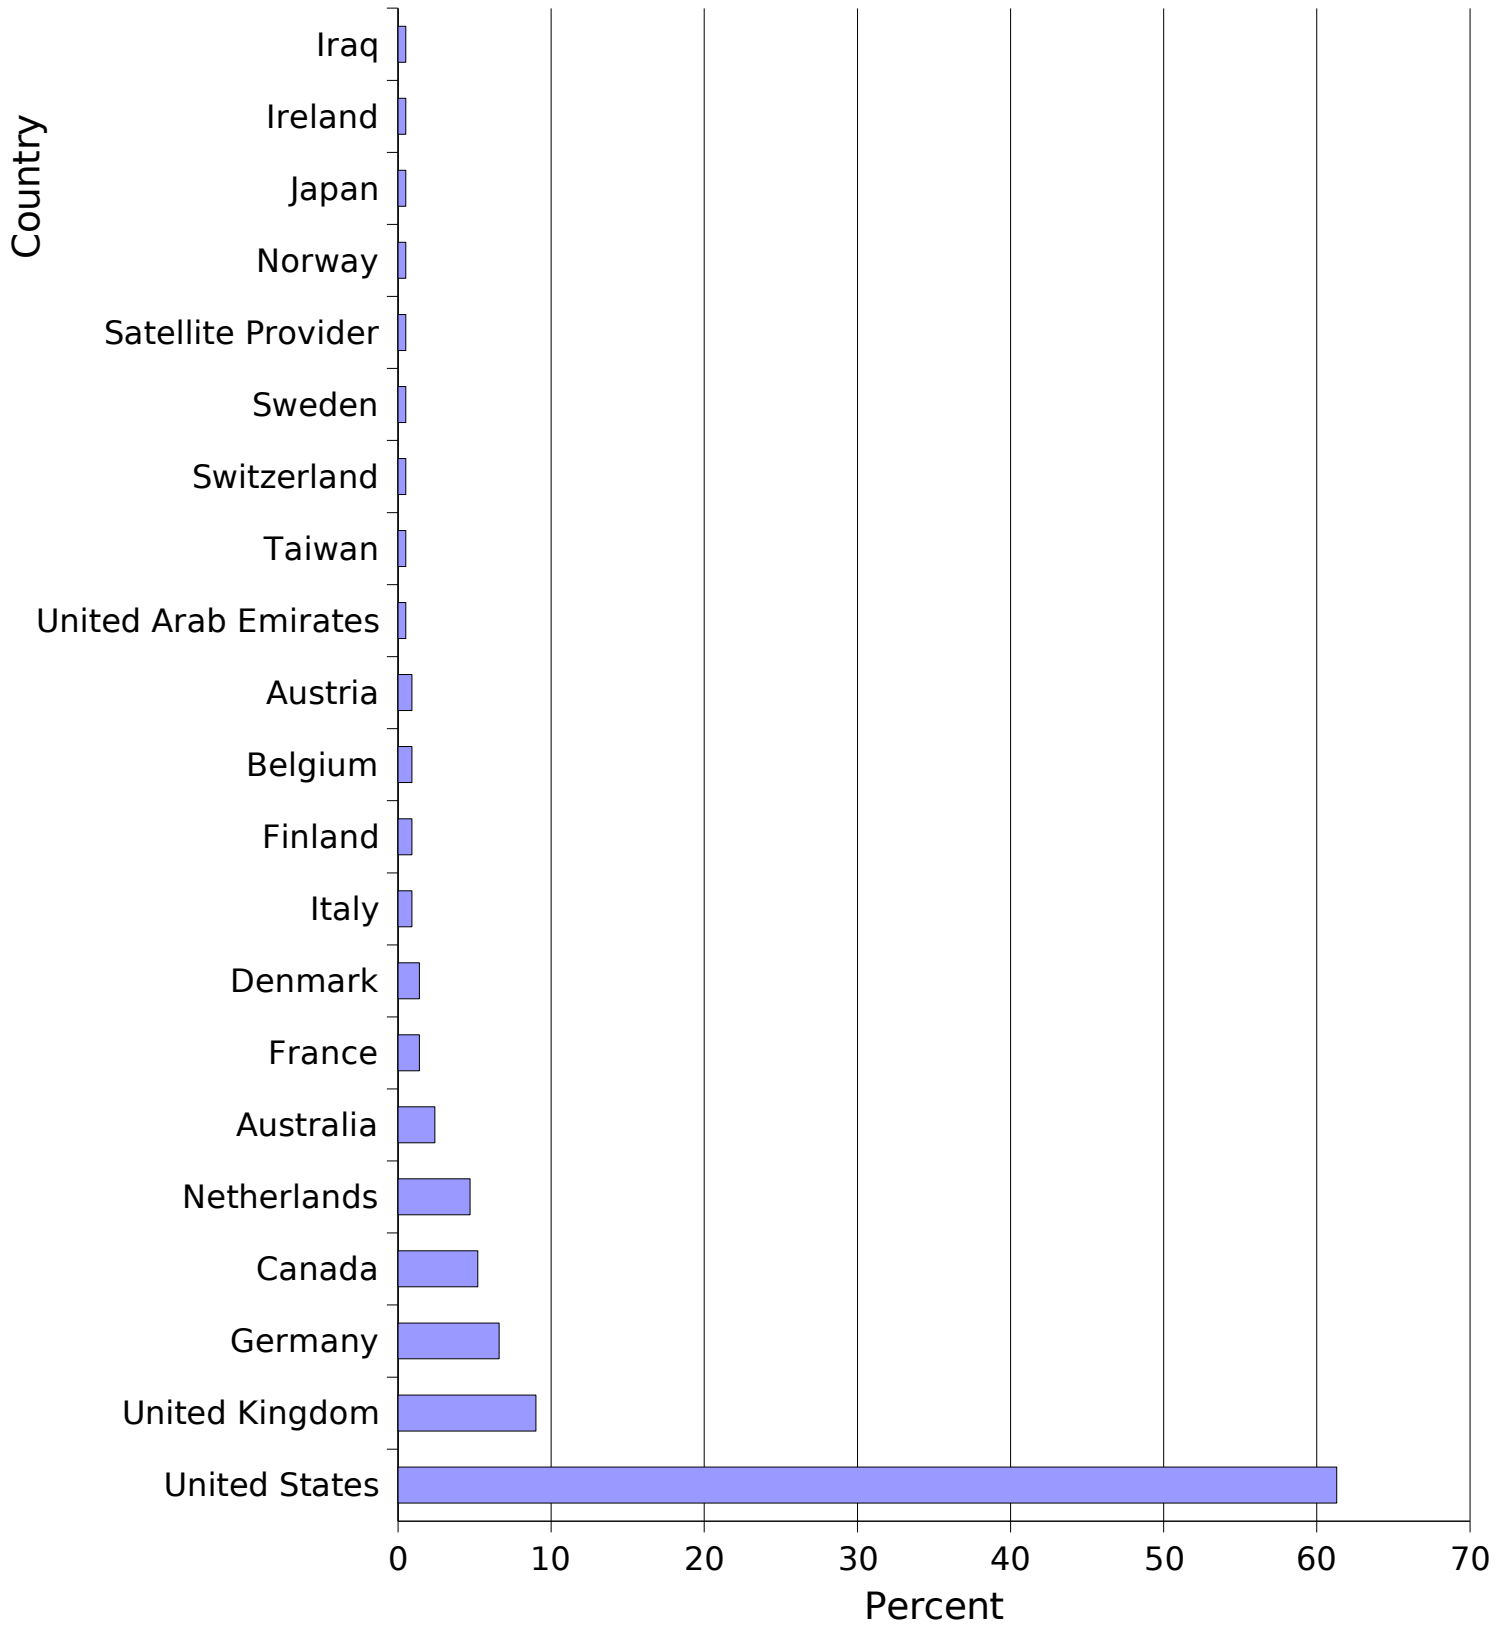

Everybody has their own questions that the data from this poll may help answer. Furthermore, this file is not the place to discuss what I think these results mean. Because of that, I have tried to keep interpretation to a minimum. However, I'll be happy to discuss these things on the forum or via email.

My email address is... Wait. Bots can pick up email addresses from PDF files too! Here's what you do: Take the URL at the top of the page, get rid of "http://" and change the first "." to a "@".

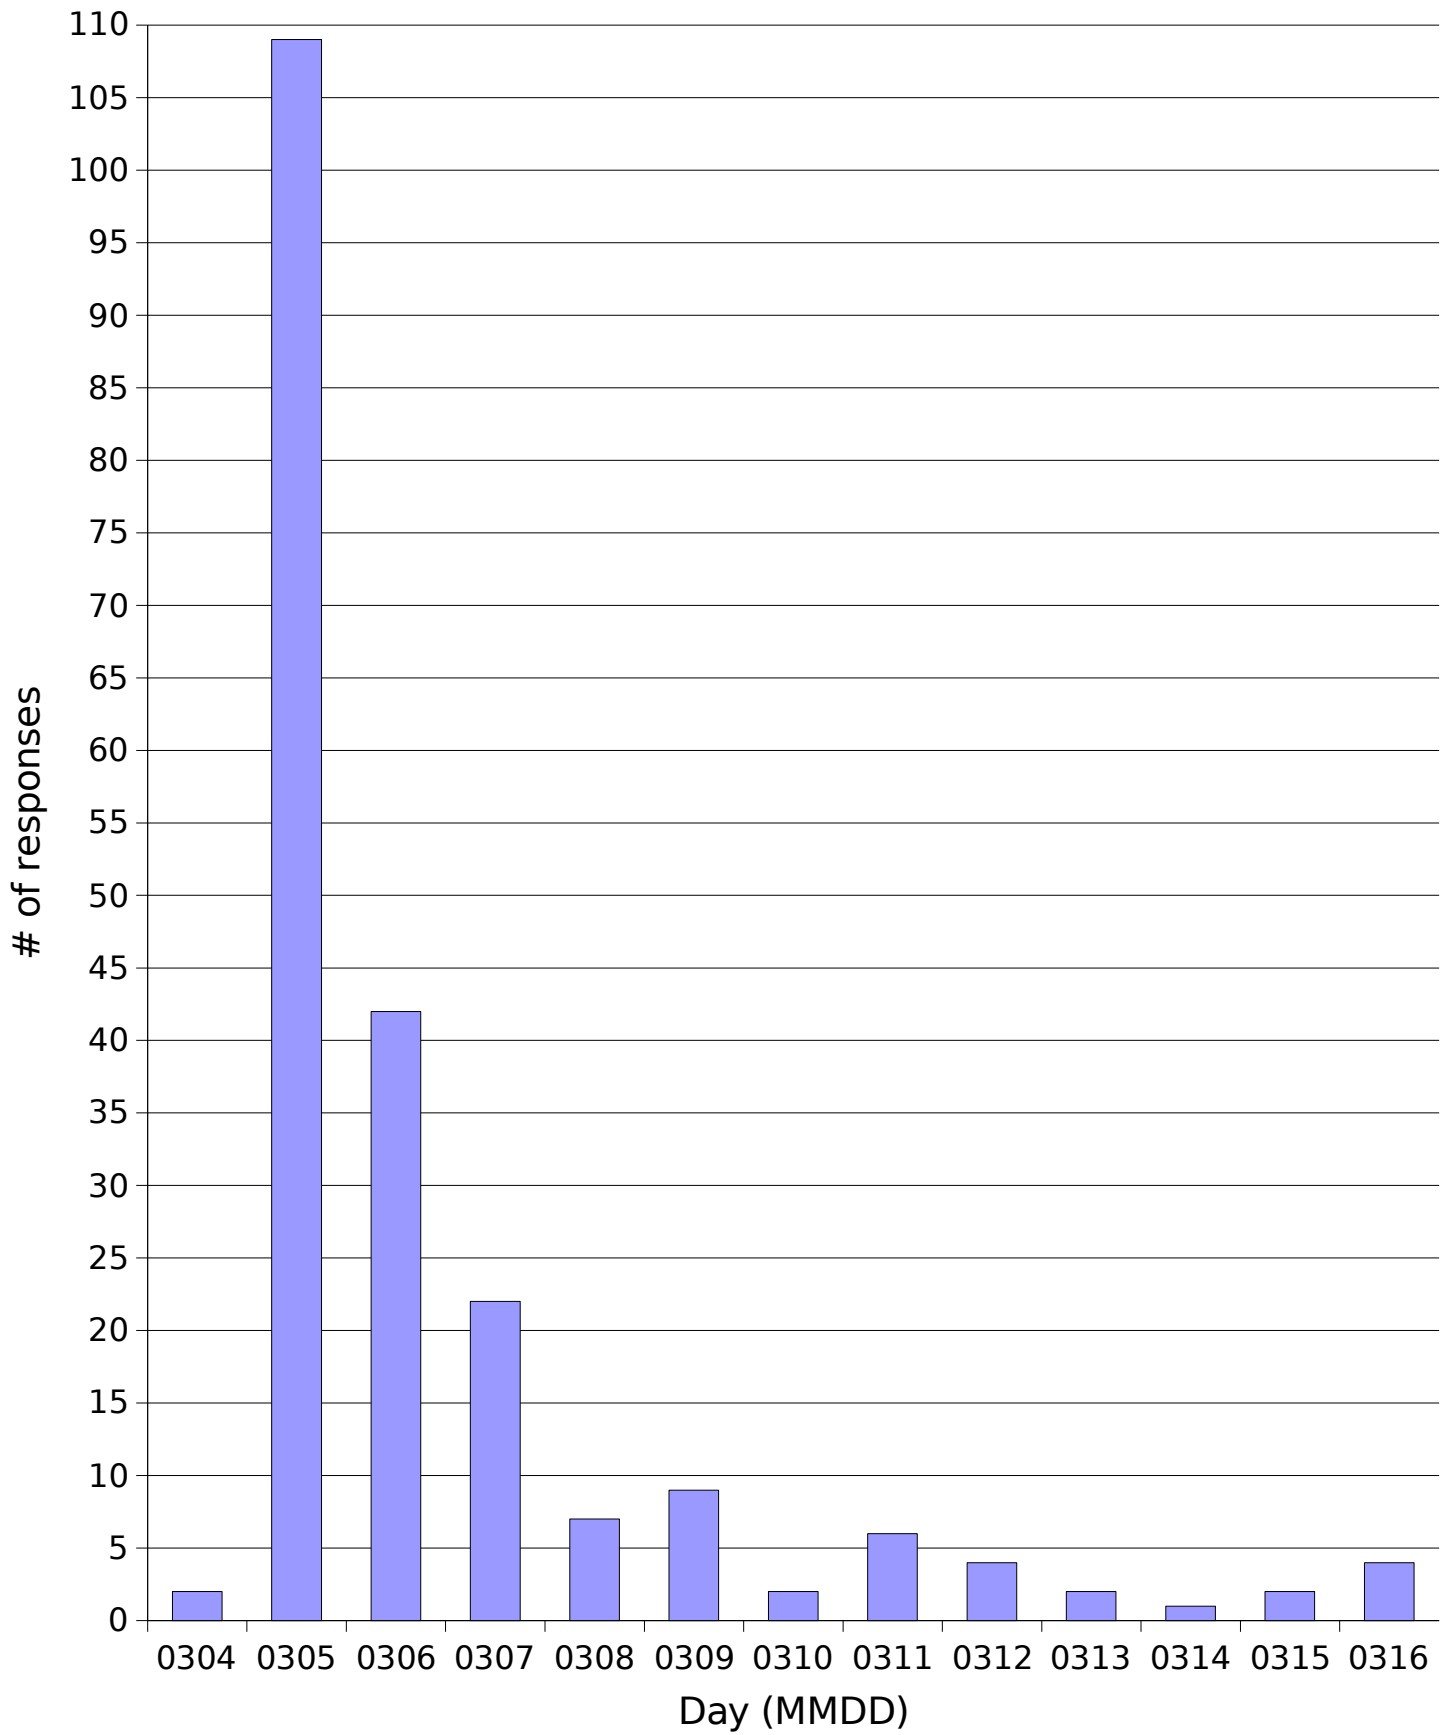

Enjoy!
